NOTE TO MR. MAURY

In connection with the report on page 4 of the 27 June 1968 Bulletin attached, the provisions of law (P.L. 90-249, Sec. 119) directing the President to withhold economic assistance in amounts equivalent to the amount spent by certain underdeveloped countries for the purchase of sophisticated weapons systems also permits him to waive this requirement when he determines that the purchase or acquisition is vital to the national security of the United States and such determination is reported to the Congress within 30 days. Incidentally, examples in P.L. 90-249 of what constitutes sophisticated weapons systems are " . . . missile systems and jet aircraft for military purposes."
